

Successful Online Ticket Portal Sold to BC Ticketing Services Company

For Immediate Release

touchlesstickets.com

Winnipeg, Manitoba – Oct 19, 2008 - Modern Earth Web Design is pleased to announce the purchase of its Touchless Tickets division by Stublogic Ticketing Incorporated – a Vancouver based ticketing services company founded by Steven Luscher.

“We are thrilled to see Touchless Tickets have the opportunity to reach its full potential in the hands of a dedicated ticketing services company,” says Dan Belhassen, President of Modern Earth Web Design. “We’ve always known that Touchless Tickets could evolve, and now that it is being nurtured by a company that is in the ‘ticketing business’, it can become a serious contender in the Canadian marketplace, and take on the bigger players on the ticketing scene.”

Touchless Tickets was originally created by Modern Earth Web Design to meet the needs of clients who required a low cost low maintenance ticketing solution for their events, tours, seminars, workshops, and special events. In the six years since its public release, Touchless Tickets has gained a loyal roster of users, who appreciate its simple functionality, low operating cost, and personalized service and support.

After using Touchless Tickets for a series of events hosted by the Society of Graphic Designers of Canada, BC Chapter, Steven Luscher saw the potential to take the ticket portal to its next level:

“In the online ticketing space, the convenient solutions come at high cost to event patrons and organizers alike. Those who can’t afford that price are forced to settle for inconvenient, second-rate ticketing solutions. Stublogic is committed to developing new ticketing services and technologies for those people, bringing them a first-rate level of service and convenience through Touchless Tickets, at less cost than the established players.”

Modern Earth Web Design – modernearth.net - An award winning Winnipeg based Web Design Company in business since 1999, Modern Earth has maintained a strong commitment to its R&D department, creating customized online applications to work in tandem with their marketing focused web site designs, as well as standalone products that provide services in the general market place. In addition to Touchless Tickets, Modern Earth has also developed “greatBIGnews” – an email marketing program, the MEMS project management system, an online learning portal called “Smarter U”, and has several other projects currently in development. The main focus of the R&D Earthlings for 2009 will be an exciting new project that they hope will create 20 or more high technology sector jobs in Manitoba over the next 2 years.

Stublogic Ticketing Incorporated – stublogic.com - Stublogic develops ticketing services and technology that enable event organizers to sell tickets online. Their ticketing solutions are brought to the public through Touchless Tickets (touchlesstickets.com), a web-based service that helps event organizers sell and issue tickets directly to consumers.

For more information please contact:

Susan Hurrell
Marketing and Communications
Modern Earth Web Design
449 Provencher Blvd, Winnipeg Manitoba R2J 0B8
P: 204-885-2469 E: susan@modernearth.net

Steven Luscher, President
Stublogic Ticketing Incorporated
P: 604-628-9813 E: media@stublogic.com